From Principal's Desk

'One who reads, leads'. If you have ever read a book in life you will know the pleasure and incentives of reading. Reading is the kind of exercise that keeps one's mind active and healthy.

Reading is one of the most important habits one needs to develop in life. It is rightly quoted that books are one's best companions. Developing reading habit from early age leads to enduring love for books.

It is a proven fact that those who have good reading habit show signs of higher intelligence. With diverse and bountiful genres, books open up the mind and enhance the creative ability and language skills.

Reading is also a kind of motivation that works wonders when it comes to de-stressing. Reading autobiographies can also encourage us to work hard and stay dedicated to achieve our goals. It helps one become a better person in life.

We must all read on a daily basis for at least 30 minutes to enjoy the sweet fruits of reading. Reading a good book is the most enjoyable experience one can have.

It is important to develop the habit of reading not only for knowledge but also for personal growth and development. It develops positive thinking and gives you a better perspective of life.

Editorial

True happiness is a feeling of joy that comes from knowing that you are doing what is right. This is the yardstick for leading a divine life. In this technological world, we are constantly bombarded with ideas and images of happiness.

We are duped and equate happiness with acquiring a new gadget or a tube of cream /lotion. "Happiness is not merely skin deep". It is much deeper.

Since ancient times, wise men and seers have exhorted us to lead simple lives. The key to happiness is to control ones' desire and senses. Eckhart Toll the author of the book "The Power of Now" suggests that our thoughts are directly connected to our happiness.

J Krishnamurthy says "I don't mind anything that happens". We need to bring in acceptance, surrender faith and turn our attitude to a "let go" one. Let us start by saying "OK" to any negative situation to help us to increase tolerance, patience and peace. So on this happy note let us do our tiny bit to spread happiness and contentment.

Let us truly inculcate the bonhomie and joy in our daily routine, to spread joy to one and all, be truly selfless in act, word and deed.
