‘All things are difficult before they are easy.’

Thomas Fuller

And difficult times are not an exception to this and last one and half years were definitely not so easy. And yes ! we all have gradually coped up with it well. These difficult times have helped us to bring the best out of us all.

People have learnt to live with these restrictions or say with this pandemic. Restrictions have been lifted recently and life has returned to normalcy again.

Public transport , social gatherings are taking place with few restrictions though. Empty streets are teeming with human life . The empty school classrooms have started bustling with cheerful and bubbly children.

But 'Lo and behold' the one common thing that remains in lives of people is 'the mask' It has now become an inevitable part of our dressing style. Sanitizing machines and infrared thermometers can be seen everywhere from Banks, malls and restaurants etc.

People are socializing but handshakes are replaced with a formal greeting with hand waving or just a Namaste. People have understood that human life is precious and survival is possible only if we adhere to these new way of life.

Though lives of people have altered during the post pandemic period, it goes without saying that people's energetic attitude have made all the difference . The hope , optimism and determination of people can always withstand such difficult times whether pandemic or anything else.

It's as though the human race has come closer to combat this dreadful enemy. The zeal and enthusiasm of people is sending positive vibes across the globe.

It is rightly said that the internal forces can make a positive change in the environment.

So, just remember,

The more positive energy you throw into the universe the more positive energy you give you back!
